Shelf liners are a fairly inexpensive way to protect shelves, linen closets, kitchen cabinets, pantries, drawers, and even refrigerators from accidental wear and messes.

Shelf liners come in adhesive and non-adhesive options but are usually nonslip, meaning they'll stay put without glue. They're available in a variety of materials, including plastic, cork, rubber, and paper, and you can find them in practically any color or design you wish to spruce up plain shelves. There are even scented liners to keep clothes in your wardrobe or drawers smelling fresh and fabulous.

To find the best shelf liners on the market, we researched top options for various budgets, considering features like liner type, material, price, adhesive, dimensions, available colors and patterns, and value for money. We also spoke with Jamie Hord, founder of professional organizing company Horderly, and Heidi Solomon, professional organizer, interior decorator, and founder of Posh Boston, about what to look for when shopping for shelf liners.
